Jakarta, 21 May 2018

Dear Mr. Suhardi,

Subject: Invitation E4J Global Hackathon, 9 to 11 July 2018

The United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) presents its compliments to The Ministry of Education and Culture of the Republic of Indonesia and acknowledges its continued support of UNODC's Global Programme for the Implementation of the Doha Declaration and its pillar on fair, humane and effective criminal justice systems.

We have the honour of writing to request support from the Ministry of Education and Culture for an activity to be hosted by our Education for Justice (E4J) initiative in July 2018. E4J is an UNODC initiative that has the objective to educate youth on crime, justice and the rule of law. In October 2017, the UNODC Indonesia Office partnered with the Ministry of Education and Culture to host a "hackathon" in Jakarta – an event in which young people at the secondary education level were challenged to design a mobile application to teach their peers about crime, justice and the rule of law. A team of six young people from Indonesia was chosen as the winner by a jury which included UNODC and Ministry of Education and Culture staff. The event in Jakarta was the culmination of other events that took place in South Africa and Bolivia in 2017.

The Ministry of Education and Culture, during that event in October 2017, conveyed their wish to strengthen cooperation with E4J and the UNODC Office in Indonesia. We are pleased to inform that E4J has now secured a partnership to undertake a final, global hackathon, with the winning teams of the events held in 2017. The global hackathon will take place from 9 to 11 July in the headquarters of Symantec, located in Mountain View, California, United States of America. In the global hackathon, the winning teams will have the opportunity to compete by creating a mobile telephone application that promotes the rule of law.

Dr. Didik Suhardi

Secretary General

Ministry of Education and Culture. The Republic of Indonesia
Jakarta

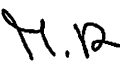

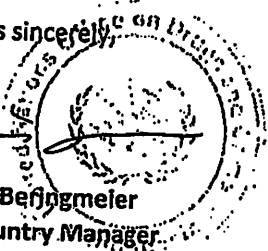

E4J would very much welcome the participation of the winning team from the Jakarta event in the global hackathon. For this purpose, we have secured accommodation and meals for all participating teams, including one responsible adult for each of the teams. In the case of the Indonesian team, E4J can cover the accommodation and meals for all six team members, as well as one responsible adult to accompany them. We would, therefore, like to enquire if the Ministry of Education and Culture is in a position to support the six team members to obtain transportation to and from Jakarta to the United States of America. Participants and the responsible adult would be required to have valid passports, as well as to apply for visas to the United States, with support letters from UNODC.

The teams from South Africa and Bolivia have already confirmed to attend and we would very much welcome participation from Indonesia. We would also like to extend the invitation to participate in the event in the United States of America to an official from the Ministry of Education and Culture, should you deem it appropriate.

We look forward to our cooperation on the proposed event. Please do not hesitate to contact Ms. Yuneti Tarigan (yuneti.tarigan@un.org +62 81311500564) should you have any questions.

UNODC avails itself of this opportunity to convey to the Ministry of Education and Culture, the assurances of its highest consideration.

Yours sincerely,

Duties and responsibilities of parties

- Symantec is responsible for providing the venue and catering for lunch and snacks.
- UNODC is responsible for moderating the event.
- UNODC is responsible for providing accommodation for all the participants during the time of the hackathon (including breakfast and dinner). UNODC does not bear any responsibility for covering the accommodation costs for anyone else apart from the secondary students and one guardian per team.
- UNODC (with the support of all the parties) is responsible for providing the main visual materials for the hackathon (visual identity for posters, banners, etc.)
- UNODC is responsible for providing substantive mentors, while Symantec is responsible for providing technical mentors.

Responsibilities of participating winning teams (Bolivia, Indonesia, South Africa)

Winning teams are responsible for:

- Travel costs to and from Mountain View, California (United States of America), including visa fees and airfare to/from neighbouring airports (San Francisco or San Jose, CA)
  - Winning teams are strongly encouraged to seek sponsorship for their participation
- Ensuring that underage participants are accompanied by one or more guardian(s);
- Training and preparing for the event, which may include development of coding skills and understanding of the topic areas.

counterparts directly asked for the possibility of a global hackathon for the winners from all participating countries.

In response and in line with E4J's mission to educate young people on justice and rule of law, a decision was made to organize a global hackathon, focusing on one specific topic.

During the local hackathons it was observed that, depending on the local context, students tend to prefer one topic over another. Cybersecurity and cybercrime topics are cross-cutting to the issues of justice and the rule of law, and expected to be equally interesting and relevant for youth around the globe. Thus, through the support of Africa Teen Geeks, Symantec offered to host the event in their headquarters in Mountain View, CA, United States that will focus on these cross-cutting issues of cybersecurity and cybercrime.

Hackathon profile

1. Dates: 9-11 July 2018
2. Venue: Symantec HQ Mountain View, CA, USA
3. Participants: 13-18-year-old students, who have at least basic coding skills (winners of previous hackathons).

Mentors

Throughout the hackathon, students will be mentored by both IT and mandate experts. Mentors will cover the following aspects:

- Technical – providing support with technical questions and assuring a quality product from a technical point of view. Support is expected from both software engineering and user interface perspectives.
- Educational – ensuring the students are incorporating educational elements in their assignments; and
- Substantive – ensuring that the given E4J topics are adequately covered in the submissions.

Jury

A jury comprised of experts from the organizing partners (local and international) will evaluate and rank the submissions based on the following criteria:

- How unique the idea is;
- How well the idea was implemented;
- How the submissions incorporate the issues of justice, the rule of law (including cybersecurity and cybercrime); and
- The educational aspect of the submissions.

Communications coverage

UNODC will produce a range of communications items during the hackathons to showcase this work at the international level. These will include:

- Web stories;
- Photos;

E4J Global Hackathon for Secondary Level Students

Background to the Education for Justice (E4J) initiative

At the conclusion of the 13th United Nations Congress on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice held in Qatar in 2015, the Doha Declaration was adopted. Calling for the integration of crime prevention and criminal justice into the wider agenda of the UN, and endorsed by the General Assembly, the Doha Declaration has at its centre the understanding that the rule of law and sustainable development are interrelated and mutually reinforcing.

To put the Doha Declaration into reality, a UNODC Global Programme was launched in 2016 to help countries achieve a positive and sustainable impact on crime prevention, criminal justice and the rule of law.

As one part of this, the Education for Justice (E4J) initiative was formed to develop and disseminate education materials on the issues of crime prevention, criminal justice and other rule of law aspects at the primary, secondary and tertiary levels worldwide.

E4J regional hackathons

Within the E4J initiative, UNODC is developing a series of interactive tools to help students learn about these subject areas. Given the very dynamic target group it was decided to involve the future users of these products from the start through a series of coding hackathons in different locations throughout the world.

By organizing these hackathons, E4J learned how students at this age understand the topics that are at the core of UNODC's mandates, as well as the different approaches young people would take to teach their peers about justice and the rule of law. The target group of those hackathons was secondary level students (aged 13-18) with coding skills.

In two and a half days of each event, the students had the opportunity to work on their own ideas for educational games with a focus on justice and rule of law issues. In 2017, E4J organised the following local hackathons:

1. Johannesburg, South Africa: 27-29 July 2017
2. La Paz, Bolivia: 1-3 September 2017
3. Jakarta, Indonesia: 20-22 October 2017

E4J global hackathon

After three successful hackathons, all host countries indicated a strong interest to continue the initiative by building on the success of the events. Some of the host countries'

Equipment

All participants are expected to bring their own laptops. If a participant is not able to bring her/his own laptop, she/he should inform the organisers by the 1st of July, so that they can provide her/him with a standard laptop equipped with Windows 10. She/he should also inform the organisers about the required software to be installed. In case a participant is choosing the option to use a computer provided by the organisers, she/he won't be able to use that computer before and after the opening hours of the venue (9-17h).
